

25.01.19

Job Announcement: Two funded PhD Opportunities

SEHAG research unit offers two part-time positions (36 months)

The German Research Foundation (DFG) and the Austrian Science Fund (FWF) are funding an interdisciplinary research unit that investigates the sensitivity of high alpine geosystems to climate change since the year 1850 (SEHAG).

For this research project, the Chair of Physical Geography at the Catholic University of Eichstätt-Ingolstadt invites applications for the following two part-time positions (62.5 % each) to be filled from March 1st 2019 or earlier:

2 Research Associates

in temporary employment for the period of 36 months.

For more information please see the attached PDF document.

Dateien:

 SEHAG_JobOpening_2ResearchAssociates.pdf 70 K

<- Zurück zu: Nachrichtenseite - Geographie Studium: Physische Geographie in Bayern - Bachelor Master Lehramt studieren